

BOONE COUNTY'S ROLL OF HONOR

The following is a list of those on Boone County's Honor Roll, including those who are serving the country in the training camps, on the sea or abroad. The women in charge of the patriotic rally to be given at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the Stephens College Auditorium, who prepared the list, ask all relatives of those included in the list to be sure to attend the rally and to meet in the music conservatory corridors at the college at 7:30 o'clock that evening and march in a body into the auditorium. Ushers will be at the door.

It is believed that the Honor Roll list is not complete. Those able to supply additional names of those who have gone to the front or to the training camps are asked to notify Mrs. J. G. Babb:

TALKS 4 MINUTES ON WAR

Addresses by Prof. W. J. Shepard at Local Theaters.

An appeal in behalf of the Y. M. C. A. War Work Fund was made at the Columbia Theater and later at the Hall Theater last night by Prof. W. J. Shepard, chairman of the local team of "Four-Minute Men." Professor Shepard said:

"We are engaged in the greatest war of all time; the most stupendous conflict of the ages. Forty millions of men are enlisted in the various armies of Europe. The United States itself has already probably a million and a quarter men in the various branches of the service, with every prospect of the number reaching five million within two years. My friends, think what this means—the entire young manhood of the nation mobilized in the conflict for democratic ideals. It is a splendid and inspiring thought. "But in the concentration of vast numbers of the nation's sons in the training camps in this country or in the reserve camps of Europe, there lurks a danger as menacing as that which they must face in the trenches—a danger more insidious, less open, less easily withstood than the danger from shell and shrapnel. It is the danger which comes from home-ties sundered; from the rupture of all the bonds and associations which have made up their hitherto peaceful lives. It is inevitable that standards should be relaxed; that in their leisure hours, a prey to loneliness, they should fall victims to the alluring and insidious temptations of vice which always surround the camps of war.

"To save our nation's young men from this enemy is the challenge which the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus and the Young Men's Hebrew Association have accepted. You know of the work which they are accomplishing. It is a work which has the indorsement of our government, and the hearty and sympathetic support of the President himself. It is these agencies which are filling in the void in the lives of the soldiers with wholesome amusements and entertainments; it is these agencies which are providing the comforts which ease so much their hard and rigorous life; it is they who at all times cast round the boys in the camps the arm of kindly helpfulness.

"We must contemplate the sacrifice of thousands of lives upon the altar of patriotism; but we may confidently expect the great majority, probably fourteen out of fifteen, to return to us and to their homes after the war is over, if not before. It is the nation's will that they return uncontaminated by vice, clean in body and soul, to take up again the relationship and responsibilities of brother, husband or father. Let us see to it that when our boys return from this war they will bear no other scars than those received in honorable warfare.

"And, my friends, it is all important that while engaged in the work of 'saving the world for democracy,' they maintain the same virile strength, the same sterling manhood, the same unsullied character with which they leave us for the battle-fields. Napoleon said: 'The morale is to the physical as three to one.' General Petain, commander-in-chief of the French armies, has declared that five hundred Y. M. C. A. secretaries through his lines would count for as much in restoring and maintaining the morale and fighting spirit of his forces as reinforcements of five hundred thousand American troops. Wherever Y. M. C. A. centers have been established along the Russian front, there the spirit of disloyalty and disaffection has not dared to raise its head. "My friends, let us help the boys who fighting for us. Let us help to keep the home-fires burning."
